Our No. 1-rated psychic's holiday gift — exclusively for NEWS readers

You can play the lottery with confidence and maybe even hit the jackpot with Countess Sophia Sabak's lucky number guide for Christmas!

It's her holiday gift to you — and finding your lucky numbers is easy.

All you have to do is look them up under your sun sign below.

After painstaking study of the powerful signs in the heavens, the Countess has determined that these numbers are all charged with the powers that can work magic for you.

For a personal touch that you won't find in any other number guide, Countess Sabak suggests that you play the day of the month you were born along with the numbers she provides.

For example, if you were born May 15, play the number 15.

"Most people believe that their birth date is the most important, I want to put that special number to work," the Countess says. "When a birth date is used with my numbers, the individual will have a combination that is theater alone."

Should you need additional numbers, simply consult Countess Sabak's Lucky Lottery Numbers guide on page 41.

'That old battle-ax couldn't keep her hands off me'

LADY BOSS FIRES MAN WHO SPURNED HER!

By LAUREL BOWIE

Handsome bachelor Hans Hubel used to snicker when gals griped about sexual harassment in the office.

But helpless Hans quit laughing the day he went to work for a tubby, bucktoothed old maid who constantly pinched him and pawed him — and finally fired him because he refused to make love to her!

"Now I know how the ladies feel when some old hag is always drooling over them at work, treating them like playthings," the former "secretary" told reporters in Stuttgart, West Germany.

"It's a joke. This old battle-ax made my life a living hell."

"She couldn't keep her hands off me and she kept whispering lewd suggestions in my ear, trying to get me into bed with her. But she was interested in me," he said.

"I just couldn't stand that now, not to save my job — and probably not even to save my life."

Harried Hans, 35, was a happy-go-lucky salesman for a home siding company. He love-starved Selma Hogue, 53, too.

"She was a wrinkled old bag who was totally unfit to run an office, but her brother owned the company so we were stuck with her," the sacked salesman recalled.

"The first thing she did was invite me up to her apartment, supposedly to discuss business. But I wasn't there 10 minutes before she straddled me on the bed in this gaudily shaggy nightgown with her fat, hairy arms and legs sticking out all over the place.

"I got the hell out of there, but on my way out the door she informed me it was going to happen sooner or later if I hoped to keep my job."

After that, Hans' already bad temper got him a moment's peace. "There wasn't a day that she didn't come up and pinch my behind and run her hands under my shirt," the embarrassed bachelor said. And when

I LOVE-STABBED Selma Hogue caused handsome male employee who refused to romance her.

BACHELOR Hans Hubel was $23,000 out.

Hans continued to deflect her advances, slovenly Selma immediately downright nasty.

"She dimmed me in inside salesman and took away my company car and credit cards," he recalled. "And before long the pigheaded bitch had me wanting on her like a slave — bringing her in, typing her letters, even rubbing her feet."

"Finally, I told her I'd have to make love to her to save my career, and that's when she fired me."

Harassed Hans sued the siding firm and won $23,000 in damages and back pay.

Kid kills brother #2, say cops

By JACK ALEXANDER

A 14-year-old teenage kid has shot and killed one of his brothers — for the second time in four years, cops said.

Baby-faced Britt Kellum is being held without bail in the Russell roulette shooting of his brother, Lewis, 6, in their Flint, Mich., home.

The shooting occurred almost four years to the day after Britt gunned down his 11-year-old brother, Anthony, with a shotgun during an argument

"He wasn't prosecuted for Anthony's death and we know now this was a horrible mistake," said Police Lt. Joe DeCatch.

The latest tragedy happened while Britt and Lewis were in the bedroom of their father's home.

"Britt decided to play Russian roulette with his little brother's life," said Lt. DeCatch.

"Britt said he was bored and felt like doing something stupid and exciting, so he grabbed his dad's .38-caliber and instead his little brother to play the deadly game with him," said Lt. DeCatch. "From what we understand, the victim was a reluctant participant."

Four years ago Britt blew his 11-year-old brother away with his dad's shotgun. Authorities declined to prosecute and Britt was ordered to undergo psychological therapy.

Six months ago, a psychologist said Britt was no longer a menace. He was allowed to go home and live with the rest of the family fulltime.

"I guess the shrink should have kept him in those therapy sessions a little longer," said Lt. DeCatch, who declined to be quoted by name.

Lt. DeCatch described the young suspect as "cool as a cucumber." "He's so calm and remorseless, it's scary," said another officer.

A judge refused to release Britt on bail, fearing for the safety of his only brother who is still alive, DeCatch.

Relatives declined to talk about the case. "We've got one little boy and another one behind her," one relative told The NEWS. "This is a pretty sad house, right now."

Under Michigan law, the teenager suspect can't be tried for murder as an adult. At worst, he could be confined to a juvenile detention center until he's

HOMEOWNER PANHANDLES IN HIS OWN FRONT YARD!

By JACK ALEXANDER

Retiree Chester Clussman says his $250-a-week income isn't enough for him to live on so he stands in his yard almost every day and begs for more.

Clussman's disgusted neighbors think he's a disgrace, "and cheapens the whole neighborhood,"

But Clussman, 74, says he and his wife need the money.

For several weeks — man or woman — he has been begging for money from motorists and others who pass by his small house in a middle-class neighborhood in Indianapolis, Ind., where he has lived more than 20 years.

He catches the eye of passersby with signs like, "Please we need money. Thank you" or

"Please we need food, help, help, a Doc. God Bless & Thank you."

"I really don't care what the neighbors say," said the old pensioner. "They aren't paying my bills. It's legal what I'm doing."

Neighbors say they've tried to help him.

"We've offered food, but he doesn't want food," said one dis-

Another neighbor said Clussman sometimes begs from a wheelchair or leaning on a cane — especially on paydays and after church.

person for a total monthly income of $997.50. But his expenses total $817.

"I try real hard. I pay my bills regularly, but there's not much left to live on," said Clussman, whose wife Sandra, 48, suffers from epilepsy and can't work.

"There's no way we can get by for a month on what I left over, especially with the medical bills we're expecting," he said. So the tall, lanky retiree has taken up begging. On a good day, he'll make $75. On a bad day, maybe $5.

Clussman says he makes too much money to qualify for welfare or any of the other "free stuff."

How to rub your fat away

By BEATRICE DEXTER

Tubby tammies will soon be a thing of the past, thanks to a new weight-loss method that lets you lose inches off your middle — simply by massaging off the fat!

The simple tummy rub routine will help you drop five pounds a week, according to

Ancient Chinese massage can take inches off your waist

San Francisco acupuncturist Dr. Chen Chang.

"Just rubbing your stomach gives you zip," said Dr. Chang, who wrote a book called Internal Exercises. "If you do it properly, you can break down fatty tissue, strengthen the heart and balance the nervous levels in your blood."

Dr. Chang says he bases his tummy-reducing method on an ancient reducing method devised 6,000 years ago in China. The method is still being used in China today, the expert says.

"You just place your palm of your hand over your belly and begin to rub slowly and lightly in counter-clockwise circles," he said.

"When you have expanded the circles to cover the entire abdomen, gradually reduce these again, until you are back to your normal."

A mere two minutes a day of gently rubbing the tummy will have jolly ladies looking sleek and slim in no time, Dr. Chang says. The method helps break down fat and eliminate fat from the body — and it does so by harnessing imagined energy waves.

Dr. Chang advises visualizing energy flowing from your hand into your body.

Sample tummy rub can help you drop up to five pounds a week, says expert Dr. Chen Chang.

FIRST PHOTO EVER OF A UFO BABY!

WORLD EXCLUSIVE!

By RAGAN DUNN

The first photo of a UFO baby that was delivered by Soviet doctors last August has been smuggled to the West. The shocking black-and-white photo clearly shows the hoy to be horribly misshapen — with brain tissue outside his head!

The stunning photograph was obtained by Yugoslavian sources and accompanied by classified documents that describe the infant's progress since his August 25 birth.

The photo, signed by Soviet obrabotchik Svetlana Kuryleva, shows the baby appears to be both healthy and hungry. He is also extremely alert, and nurses on a electricity that he draws out of wall sockets with a strange prodded tongue.

"The infant is remarkable," Dr. Kurylev reported in a memo that was attached to the stungged photo.

"There is no telling how much we can learn from him as he continues to grow and develop. He can certainly help us to understand the evolution

BIRTH of the UFO baby was reported in The NEWS on September 5.

Glimpses had been received from the wreckage of a starship that crashed near Nyda, in Siberia, last July.

The documents went on to say that the infant's birth took Soviet doctors by surprise.

There were also indications that the blue-skinned baby had died shortly after birth.

But the photograph and more recent reports suggest that that was not the case.

According to Dr. Kurylev's report, the mother actually appeared to be shocked when she saw the infant live.

"The mother refused to nurse the baby but that was of no consequence," wrote Dr. Kurylev. "It could crawl at birth and to our surprise the most remarkable began to walk."

"The mother refused to nurse the baby but that was of no consequence," wrote Dr. Kurylev. "It could crawl at birth and to our surprise the most remarkable began to walk."

"The baby's flesh is as hard as stone and there is definitely brain tissue on his face and head," continued the doctor. "The only trait he shares with the adult aliens are gleaming black eyes.

"It's possible that his skull will grow as he ages and cover the brain. If not, the infant will be vulnerable to brain injury as long as he lives."

Large portions of Dr. Kurylev's report have been blocked out so it is impossible to determine where the Soviets are keeping the baby.

No mention of it is made of the mother or other adult aliens, making it impossible to tell if they're dead or alive.

Soviet officials referred to comments on the documents, photo or report. Replied one agent failed — in spite of heavy pressure from UFO researchers in Britain, Europe, China and the United States.

Meanwhile, Swedish UFO researcher Christian Dahlqvist has asked Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev to release information about the alien baby "before the end of the year."

Bulldog bully bitten by love

... now he's tame as a kitten!

By RICK MOSS

Spike was such a big, bad bully of a bulldog that he was banned from obedience school, but the four-legged troublemaker has finally been tamed — by love!

Nearly eight months ago, Bill Wright, an insurance agent living in Huddersfield, England, plunked down $1,300 for the plucky 18-month-old pup.

"But when I entered Spike in a dog show," Wright said, "he started chasing dogs to the show ring and then bit them."

"I scolded him in one obedience school

but he pinned one of the trainers against a wall for 15 minutes and was expelled.

"Then I put him

in another class

run by two ladies,

but they told me not to bring him back again. But he terrified one of them by grabbing her blouse and refusing to let go.

"I couldn't think of what to do, but then a friend suggested that getting a female bulldog might be the answer."

So Wright shelled out another $1,500 for Elsa, a 2-year-old champion bulldog who was instant love at first sight.

"Spike suddenly became a gentle, well-behaved dog," said Wright.

"He never lets her out of his sight, and she was there when we won first prize at a local dog show."

"She shares his sleeping quarters, and we're hoping that sometime soon they'll mate and have a family."

CRUISING Spike was a big troublemaker until he met puppy-faced cutie Elsa, right, and settled down.

Elephant woman blamed for granddaughter's deformity

IT'S NOT MY FAULT!

By SUSAN JIMISON

Alling grandmother Edwina Reeves has disfiguring Elephant Man's disease, but the real tragedy in her life is that she cannot see her two granddaughters — because her son has banned her from his home!

The heartbroken housewife has been forbidden to see Jessica, 5, and Charlotte, 10, for the past five years. Her only son Alan blames her because Jessica inherited her terrible disease.

"I have enough to cope with in life without my own son hunting against me," said Edwina, 56, who has never met Jessica and hasn't seen Charlotte in five years.

"Five years ago I thought I was the only one in the world with this weird disease. Now my own granddaughters has it. Jessica has already lost an eye, and his life is drooping. He has given me no reason for blaming me."

Edwina didn't show severe signs of her rare disease until she was 22 years old. It was then that her face began to swell and burst into a mass of bulging flesh. By that time she had already married and had her son, who inherited a milder form of the disease.

She had the lumpy growths surgically removed, but they grew back. Then she lost the sight of one eye, and the bulging growth of course tissue destroyed the muscles in her face, making further surgery impossible.

When Alan was born and had little Charlotte, a healthy girl — Edwina believed him not to be a second child for lost it might carry the disease. "But he dismissed that as nonsense,"

TRAGIC Jessica Reeves, 5, inherited neurofibromatosis from her granny.

Gulp! Tots drink antifreeze 'lemonade'

A distraught dad realized too late that the light green liquid he gave his twin toddlers to drink wasn't lemonade as he had thought — hot antifreeze!

The unidentified 18-month-old girls were rushed to a hospital in St. Pleasant, Md., and arrived semiconscious with breathing difficulties. They were sent to Campbridge, England. When Jessica was born with a cleft palate, Edwina had to go to the hospital. But Alan said: "Since then he has prevented me from seeing my grandchildren. If I call him, he just says 'yes' or 'no' and puts the phone down. When I send the children presents, his wife Miry tries to send them back. They are naturally very open and need to blame someone. But he is the last to blame. He ignored my advice and gave this affliction to Jessica."

Police say the girls' mother had been given a plastic jug of antifreeze which she left on the kitchen table. The children's kitchen — thinking it was juice — put it to the refrigerator and served it to his babies several days later.

"It was an honest mistake," said police Sgt. Bruce Elliott.

Hanky-panky hypnotist lured beauties into bed

By TINO GORADO in Lisbon

Fourteen women complained to authorities after they went to see a hypnotist for help in quitting smoking — and were mesmerized into having sex!

Dr. António Carmo, 46, of Lisbon, Portugal, has been charged with assault and unprofessional conduct as a result of the shocking incidents given by the women.

"After the first visit to Dr. Carmo, I was unable to resist him," said one victim, Anna-Woman Tula Spicola, 27. "Whoever he asked me for sex, I agreed."

Police in Lisbon say they've traced complaints back eleven years, when Dr. Carmo opened his practice as a hypnototherapist in 1978, specializing in helping patients break bad habits. He successfully cured a number of smokers, compulsive eaters and neurotics, police say, but he also seduced a number of his most attractive patients.

According to police, Dr. Carmo used the same technique

'I couldn't resist him,' says victim with each of his victims. When a pretty woman turned up at his office, he would ask her to lie down on his couch and undergo hypnosis. The women say that as soon as they were under Dr. Carmo's spell they were asked by Dr. Carmo to strip and lie down. They say that that this aids physical contact, which is necessary to strengthen the effects of the therapy.

"I knew it was wrong, but I did what he asked anyway," said Mrs. Spicola, a mother of two. "He was tall and had bushy hair. He was unappealing but I followed his orders."

"I sat on his lap and I remember blanking out. When I came to, my clothes were rumpled and my buttons were undone. I knew he had had his way with me, but I didn't have the memory to tell him," Mrs. Spicola says she was hypnotized into returning for "treatments" every week for three years, although she was ashamed of her sexual contacts with Dr. Carmo. She finally became so depressed over her behavior that she tried to kill herself, she said.

When her husband learned the true cause of her depression, he took her to the police and told her story.

"We had had scores of complaints about Dr. Carmo," said police spokesman Francisco Antunes.

UNDER A SPELL: Tula Spicola spilled the beans.

Local Antunes: "Thanks to Mrs. Spicola, we've got him."

Dr. Carmo faces 27 years in prison if he is convicted on the assault charge.

NEW SHOCKER IN BLOCKBUSTER BOOK

Elvis stunk to high heaven & even wet his pants!

Pill-popping rocker Elvis Presley was so hooked on drugs he refused to bathe for months on end, he often wet his pants — and he stunk to high heaven!

Before the pills finally killed him, a fat and frightened Elvis lost his ability to make love — and had so many brushes with death his pals made bets on when and where the rock 'n' roll legend would meet his Maker.

Investigative reporters Charlie Thompson and Jim Cale make these and other shocking revelations in a startling, soon-to-be published book called Elvis, Dead or Alive.

Thompson, a producer at 60 Minutes, and veteran newsmen Cale spent more than 10 years researching and writing what could be the most accurate — and heartbreakng — Elvis book ever.

Among the authors' most jolting disclosures:

• The shattered singer died from an overdose of prescription drugs and nothing else — despite an official report claiming "heart problems" contributed to his death.

• Elvis' pals and loyal employees were so sure Elvis was going to OD on drugs

FRIENDS bet on when and where Elvis would die, book says.

Debbie Harry says she'd never hitchhike again.

Pop goddess Debbie Harry recalls close encounter with Ted Bundy!

Pop goddess Deborah Harry (III) gets shifty dews her spine thinking about the day she hitched a ride in New York City and came face to face with sadistic serial killer Ted Bundy. And as if dealing with Bundy wasn't bad enough, the young woman who hitched his car was Bundy's — the momma who sold her and her sister down the river before being fried in Florida's electric chair.

The famous lead singer for the rock band Blondie says she was trying to catch a cab late one night in the early '70s when a fellow pulled up in a little white car and insisted on giving her a ride.

"I got in the car, and it was sum summertime and the windows were all rolled up except about an inch and a half at the top," Debbie recalled. "I could hear the wind whoosh, and I realized there was no side handle, no dashboard, no nothing."

"I got very nervous. I reached my arm out through the little crack and stretched down and opened the car door, the outside."

"As soon as he saw that, he tried to leave the car, he really lost, and I saw out of the car and landed in the middle of the street."

Sexy Debbie, who's giving an acting of His Little Girl of Glass, Cat's Eye and Empire, said she didn't realize until she read about Bundy's execution last year that she'd escaped the jaws of one of the world's most evil men.

"The whole description I have is separated and what he looked like and the kind of car he drove and the time frame he was doing it to — that area of the country — fit exactly," she said.

Since I started wearing the Cross of Agades I have won the lottery twice.

The Legend begins in the kingdom of Askia at the great Sultan Songhal. Ahmed, a poor camel driver, fell out of favor with the powerful Sultan and was expelled to an oasis to die in the desert. Alone and in agony, Ahmed was viciously attacked by a Bedouin. Upon seeing his dagger poised to plunge into his chest, Ahmed grabbed his assailant's neck, tearing off the chain he was wearing. A strange cross made out of silver hung from the chain. The Bedouin immediately turned pale, staggered, and lay dead as it struck by lightning.

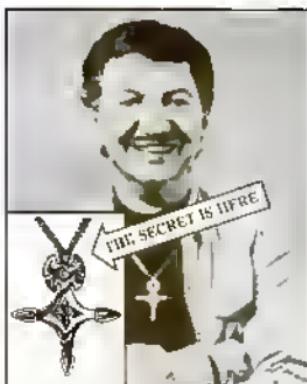

Pleased at his good fortune, Ahmed placed the cross on his chest and mounted the camel which had been left by the Bedouin. The camel took him to a cavern near Agades. Inside he discovered many different kinds of precious jewels and gold treasure which had been hidden and stored there by thousands of caravans.

From that day no, he and his descendants wore a similar cross which brought them good health, luck and happiness for the rest of their days.

Today, belief of such legends is still. Yet there are still some people who do believe in them.

From this innumerable, man has known of substances and talismans with the power to change the destiny of those who wear them.

Nowadays, it's been said that a strange form of a jewel brings about a curious occurrence. Somehow it changes the magnetic field around the human body, turning it into a positive field and repelling the negative waves. Thus, it always attracts beneficial waves as an attractor. (We have all noticed the magnetic attraction of successful persons who are happy, lucky and healthy.)

Magnetic attraction is evident when we speak of the good vibes that we get from someone.

We can cite the example of the famous and appealing

Brazilian musician, Calinche, universally recognized for over two decades. Calinche told us his extraordinary history: "Nothing out of the ordinary happened to me before I started twenty, then a friend from Europe gave me a cross which seemed to be somehow magical. 15 days later, I won the first prize in the National Lottery. I thought that it was just a mere coincidence. Two months later, I won again. My whole life was transformed because my good luck started coming naturally. And from that day on, I began to introduce myself to artists such as Elton Regina, Roberto Carlos, Elizabeth Cardoso—all the big names of popular music. I manuscripts than since then I have not gone without the Agades cross, not even for a moment."

2-YR.-OLD GIRL RAISED BY PANTHER

VIOLENT-LOOKING cat like this one became an abandoned baby's living mother.

... now she's learning to live as a human, say rescuers

By DTIS DANIELS

A 2-year-old girl who was mothered from infancy by a wild panther has been taken to a rehabilitation center where she is rapidly learning to behave like a human, Indian news agencies report.

Dr. Deveshwar Ghosh, who heads up the department of special education at the Delhi clinic, told reporters that the child is "healthy, happy and making progress by the hour."

Although the entire story of her life might never be known, he said the evidence suggests she was abandoned shortly after birth and raised by a lone female panther.

"She is smart as a whip and is adapting to her new life beautifully," said Dr. Ghosh.

"The key word is adapt — to my opinion, her contact with humans is minimal," he said. "When she was rescued from Jhansi, in northern India, she was about 18 months old. At that age, she had no human speech or movements and she looked no taller than a wild jungle cat, which is thought to be of least 20 months old."

Jhansi is a small town in central India. The girl was captured in the forest about 50 miles south by loggers who found her clumped over a dead female panther in mid-May, the press said. Jyoti Bai swati, a village medic, said the loggers delivered the girl to her thinking that she was lost and perhaps starved.

"There are not educated men, so you can imagine what they thought when they caught this small little girl in the jungle," he said.

"Her hair was long and matted. She was in reasonably good physical condition, but the only sounds she made were grunts. At rest, she would hunker down, letting her drapes to the ground."

Osawal said he called the Delhi clinic about the child "because it was obvious she was not your normal child."

Dr. Ghosh is considered to be one of India's leading authorities on on her childhood behavior. He told reporters that the girl continues to many ways to act like a cat, but his human instincts are intact. And he fully expects that she will one day lead a normal life.

"It's truly remarkable," he said. "You would expect that she might be fearful of humans and terrified by their technology. In fact, she is wary but not afraid."

"As her vocabulary, after just two months, is limited to 20 words,"

Teacher works wonders with special class

By SUSAN JIMISON

The kids at a Philadelphia school for the blind perform miracles every day — by painting beautiful pictures — although they can't see a thing!

The colorful paintings the students produce are just like the work of sighted kids their age and the art makes the children feel good about themselves, their teacher Susan Rodriguez says.

"I've taught thousands of blind kids since I began working at the Overbrook School for the Blind in 1973," said Susan.

"I've seen that letting this to produce a work of art increases the blind artist's self-confidence. And I do people to find the difference between blind kids' paintings and those done by my students who can see."

Susan teaches her young students to draw by using a special screen that helps them space objects in their paintings and drawings. The kids use their other senses to remember the sounds and sensations of a day at the beach, a walk in the country or a trip to the circus.

All the blind children's pictures add up to a kind of vision, so that the kids can actually picture things in their minds," said Susan, whose book A-1 Snarf was published in 1988 by Prentice-Hall. "These children know from the sense of touch that a face has two eyes and a mouth and that the nose is positioned between them. They can translate that to a painting." And after several days, the children gauge the dis-months of practice, Susan's blind students can draw and paint on their own, without any special aids.

They choose their colors by touch — the yellow crayon is lemon-scented, the red cherry-scented, and so forth.

Using their sense of touch, the children gauge the dis-stance between objects on their paper. And amazingly, they produce the incredible details most people think would be impossible for someone who can't see.

"They're little van Goghs," Susan said proudly. "Some of them are remarkably talented artists."

Killer confesses — then hangs himself

A love-crazed soldier confessed to his mom he'd murdered his ex-girlfriend's parents — then he hanged himself in his prison cell.

Kevin Greenland, 26, was awaiting trial for the attempted murder of his former sweetheart, Sarah Randall, 21, and the murder of his parents, Brian and Ursula Randall.

Miss Randall killed Greenland, and unable to accept her injection, he broke into her parents' home in Belpton, England.

He stabbed Sarah 37 times and then butchered her parents. Greenland's mom, Margaret, 51, said her son confessed to the murders on one of her visits to his prison.

Miss Randall is recovering from her wounds and has been discharged from the hospital.

"Ex-Truck Driver Gets $21,108 a Month Doing What You Aren't"

By Neville B. Lawlor • Special Feature Writer

Orlando, FL • "I only 6 months I took on a whopping $12,650 — and I can take any average person and show them exactly how to do it," declares Lawrence Tabak.

Tabak began a few years ago with humble beginnings as a truck driver. But the cash didn't start to roll in until he discovered the little known money making secret.

Now, on a trial basis, Tabak has begun to train everyday people, just like himself, how to duplicate his system.

Already the results have been astounding. For example, a person in St. Augustine wrote that they had made $12,000 in just 6 months. Is it real?

"I'm as smug as you," he states, "only, I have discovered an amazing wealth system."

"Put my program into action," he says, "and you are admired driving your sparkling Mercedes, BMW, or Cadillac. You dazzle your friends with your new dream home. And people see you radiating like a champion."

"I make it possible for anyone, regardless of age, sex, race, religion, or background, to make money."

"You can really be the kind of person that you always wanted to be."

And what's more? He adds, "to make an extra $30,000, my way, requires little effort!"

"Look, there's no magic word, and poof... you're rich. It takes time and work. But it's worth it. In fact," he adds, "I only want people who are willing to put forth some effort to use it."

Now, you may say make as much as Tabak, but if you are a real "Go-Getter," you will make even more. And, above all, the nice result is that you win the respect of your friends and family.

Tabak has offered to send further details to readers who want to learn his new wealth system. Simply send your name and address to:

Keep those Nazis where they belong . . .

Put The Wall back up!

I'm so mad I could pop my doc's blood pressure cuff that they're knocking down the Berlin Wall over there in Germany — and good-hearted Americans are falling for this scheme.

As if we didn't have enough problems, now we've let those goosie-stepping, bear-guzzling, strudel-eating, bear-baiting Nazis get back to get us again. Great!

Now all we have to do is figure out which country we're going to let them invade after they get bored with the non-peaceful and non-territorial parties.

Let's face it, Germans have never really liked living in their own country. They're always trying to live somewhere else like Poland and France and Czechoslovakia — and this list goes on and on. I was wondered that the Japanese were snapping up all the world's prime real estate.

But I guess they pay market price for it.

The only offer the Germans ever made for a piece of property came out of the barrel of a cannon.

I mean, what if they come over here and say "We want Disney World."

We'd have to blast 'em back to the 18th century — like those from shelling the castle out of Landskron's Castle and surrounding Mr. Toad's Wild Wood with storm troopers.

If those cabbage heads had their way, next time you took the kids to see Mickey Mouse you'd pay for tickets in marks instead of dollars. Donald Duck would be a Nazi and Winnie the Pooh would be in concentration camp!

You know how I feel about the sneaky Russians. But they did the world a favor in August 1961 when they held the groundbreaking ceremony for the Berlin Wall.

They did what I said about the Germans always wanting to live somewhere else was right. The Wall just fooled 'em into climbing over it and THINKING they were somewhere else. But what's really got me bouncing off the wall is all the liberal, bleeding-heart newspapers blabbering about how great it is that this "fairy-tale country that gave us Humpty and Gretel" is back together again.

Hogwash!

Germany gave us fairy tales like Die Schneekönigin and Adolf Hitler and those stupid-looking Volkswagens.

So when we're all sitting Wiener schnitzel, don't tell me I didn't tell you so.

The Wall oughta go back up pronto — and I'll lay the first brick!

Our baby's ghost is terrorizing us

By SUSAN JIMISON

Sharon and Ray Green and their little girl are being terrorized night and day — by the jealous ghost of their dead baby boy!

The angry spirit of the child who was stillborn is apparently disturbed that the Greens' 15-month-old daughter Samantha occupies the nursery once intended for him. So he wakes his sister with blood-curdling screams, steals her toys and turns the lights in her room off and on.

The Greens say the ghost of their dead child began to haunt their Union, England, home right after little Samantha was born. From the first moment they laid their new daughter in her crib, the true began.

"I heard noises through the baby monitor, like someone walking around," said Sharon, whose husband runs a jewelry shop. "But when I went upstairs there was no one there."

"Then things started disappearing, including Samantha's teddy bear. We searched the bedroom but found nothing. Six weeks later the teddy bear turned up on a shelf. Toys moved from one side of the room to the other.

"Close doors and drawers were opened and shut. Worst of all, Samantha would suddenly burst into tears when we asleep at all if she was having nightmares."

More than once Ray or Sharon would enter Samantha's nursery at night and find a full of paws, intense white light hanging over their child's bed. Once they heard a voice screaming at their baby to "get out!"

In desperation, Sharon went to visit a psychus — and found out the ghost was her own dead child.

"She told me, 'I see you've brought your son along — he's holding you by the hand,'" Sharon recalled. "I was horrified because I had only lost something brushing my hand."

"When I told her about Samantha's nightmares, she said it was my son tormenting me by saying, 'This room is mine, not yours. I want you out!' She said the ghost was not a baby but much more mature than in his other world."

To get rid of the jealous

thirsty thieves

Cops nabbed two felons for Sam's a lot of tears when the thirsty thieves returned for a tap is open.

sheet, Bay, 23, has tried half-leading him to silence. He says he went into Samantha's nursery one night after hearing her screaming hysterically in the ceiling and found her sound asleep.

"The room was very cold and a beam of white light was hovering below the lampshade," Ray said.

"I knew instantly it was the ghost baby."

"I said, 'Child, God be with you, in its place,' at which the crib began to shudder violently. I told him firmly, 'Go!' and the white light disappeared through the wall with a whoosh."

Ray believes he has convinced the ghost to go, but Sharon is still frightened.

"I'm so afraid that every time I hear noises upstairs I have to get out of the house and take Samantha with me," she said.

An expert's tips for wedded bliss!

12 Commandments of marriage

By SUSAN JIMISON

Couples stand a better chance of staying out of divorce court, says Dr. Paul Mickey. If they prepare themselves for the down side of wedded life — and follow the 12 commandments of marriage.

A Duke University divinity

professor, marriage counselor and author of Tough Marriage — How to Make a Difficult Relationship Work (Marlowe), Dr. Mickey believes couples rather than face it realistically.

"Everyone has problems with their marriage," Dr. Mickey, 48, who has been married 24 years, said. "I've heard them too. But people should try to make a marriage work and these are a bunch of helpful things you can do."

Dr. Mickey offers this list of rules for wedded bliss that he calls the 12 commandments of marriage:

1. Get counseling before you marry: Talking with your pastor or a marriage counselor will help bring unspoken conflicts to light so they can be faced and dealt with before you tie the knot.

2. Put your spouse on a pedestal: Treat him or her like someone special. Make sacrifices and help reduce pressures on your mate. Learn to forgive and forget.

3. Make a break with your parents: You're married to your mate, not mom and dad.

4. Be truthful and use the language of love: Communicating with patience and understanding — rather than anger and insult — will lead to a closer bond.

5. Play together: Don't just eat, make love and sleep together — take time to be with one another.

6. Encourage the best in your spouse: Compliment him or her on good points, lovingly point out flaws that can be rectified.

7. Commit yourself to religion: Attend a church or synagogue so that you learn there are bigger things than your marriage to think about.

8. Curb lust: Not just sexual lust, but lust for things like work and money. Keep your hangups under control.

9. Slow down: A little peace and relaxation reduces stress on a marriage.

10. Be a healthy marriage: Leave a little time and you'll need to change your agenda, your life-style, as the years pass. Don't waste as you lose jobs, children, friends as marital powers.

11. Get some time alone: Solitude builds strength and perspective and teaches you to survive without constant physical contact.

12. Learn to let go: Try to be like a child in your wonder at new ideas and concepts and like a wise man who is never surprised or shocked by life. Release your grasp on false ideas and replace them with greater truths.

Hotheaded nun

By DAMON RAY

A Buddhist nun punched a monk and ran screaming from a temple when the wooden sticks he pushed into her head and set on fire burned her scalp!

"I wanted to be a devoted nun but not bad enough to suffer like that," Jenny Lin Goh, 23, told newsmen in Singapore.

"I've never felt such pain," she continued. "My flesh was burning. My head was on fire. I've never gone through anything like it."

The incredible drama unfolded when Miss Goh and several other young women were scheduled to be initiated as Buddhist nuns in a Singapore temple.

Their heads were shaved. And in keeping with tradition, monks pushed sharp wooden sticks into their heads and set them on fire.

The would-be nuns were expected to endure the pain without so much as a whimper or grimace. But Miss Goh couldn't stand it and struck the monk who had sticks square to the face. She then ran screaming from the temple while hundreds of Buddhist holy men and women watched.

"Not every woman is manna to be a nun. This woman certainly wasn't," said Loy Teck Tan, the monk Miss Goh struck.

"The endurance of pain is something we all have. We cannot fail if we get the best of us. If we do, it is a sign that we are lacking in devotion."

Miss Goh agreed that she wasn't cut out to be a nun and was very apologetic about hitting the monk. "I just wish I had had the courage to walk away without resorting to violence," she said.

No life of Riley for retirees, says study

Retirement is going to be impossible for baby boomers who they reach 65 — because talks in their 30s and 40s right now aren't saving anything for their old age.

Experts believe by the time baby boomers are ready to quit working, Social Security will be able to supply only 50 to 60 percent of the income necessary to live comfortably. If middle-income folks don't put away something on their own, they'll face a drastic reduction in living standards.

The American Academy of Pension Actuaries says the crucial will come from skyrocketing health care costs, short-sighted government policies on taxes and an aging population.

HOST TRAIN SAVES 2

... this 1891 headline told an incredible

Railroad engineer Jim Murphy saw the ghoulish image of a locomotive bigballing toward him on the tracks ahead and, in a rush of panic, brought his own train to a screeching stop — only scant feet from a washed-out bridge!

Murphy's fear-car "Prairie Louis, Missouri," on the night of July 1, 1891, with 200 passengers and a six-man crew, according to an old newspaper re-

"I hit the brake and I thought for a moment that the tender was going to climb right into my cab. It seemed like we rattled along the tracks for miles and I kept seeing the light of that other locomotive ahead. Only it didn't seem to be getting any closer."

"After I finally got my train stopped, I stepped down from the cab and walked toward the other

YING OF CANCER!

By SUSAN JIMISON

Brave joy was followed by tragedy when Elonna McKibben when doctor said she had terminal cancer — just after she gave birth to quintuplets.

courageous Warren, Ohio, woman says she is given just two years to live. "I don't want to go too much to live for now."

legal secretary, and her steelworker husband died 10 years to have children. The birth of September 9 was a dream come true for them, of the quintuplets, a little girl named Ivana, died. A mother had suffered unusual pain during her pregnancy, but doctors attributed her discomfort to the number of babies she was carrying.

When the pain didn't stop after the babies were delivered, doctors ordered extensive tests — and found an incurable malignant tumor on her spinal cord.

"I was in a lot of shock because I just didn't expect it," said Elonna, who had the deadly tumor removed from her spine 8 months after the babies were born. "I just looked at the doctor and said, 'You're telling me I'm dying?' He said, 'Yes.'

"I'm not crying I'm not doing a lot of crying, but God doesn't promise any set number of days. We never know when our time is up. I know that the more positive you are, the better your chances are. I have to keep myself well for the babies — they're my incentive."

The spinal tumor has left Elonna with little feeling in her legs, so for the time being the brave mom is wheelchair-bound. But she's happy to be home looking after her three baby daughters and her infant son.

Meanwhile, friends and family have gathered around the brave mom to help. A special fund has been set up at First Federal Bank of Warren, 185 East Market Street, Warren, Ohio 44482, and already money is pouring in to help the young family pay medical and childcare expenses.

"There are a lot of people praying for me and that gives me strength," Elonna said. "I'm going to take things a day at a time now and enjoy every moment with my children."

"I want every minute with my babies to be precious. I'm facing a new life with my babies and that's what I want to concentrate on."

Naughty cat walks 450 miles home

A canary-gobbling kitty named Murka was exiled to a faraway city for feasting on her family's pet birds. But amazing Murka found her way home a year later — after trudging 450 miles through ice and snow!

Then, four days after her mistress welcomed her home with open arms, the cantankerous tabby turned right around — and chomped another canary!

"I don't know what we're going to do with that cat," anxious Anna Dostoeva told reporters in Moscow, Russia.

"Murka is a sweet thing, and she worked so hard to get back home we have to give her a stay again."

"But we lose our birds, too, and it breaks our hearts when she eats them."

The misadventures of the mischievous kitty began last year when she gobbled up two of the seven parrots Anna and her hubby Vladimir kept in their four-room apartment.

"She seemed to be getting such a fondness for the birds we decided we had to send her away," Anna said.

So the heartbroken housewife and her hubby carted naughty Murka off to live with a cousin in Voronezh, 450 miles southeast of Moscow. But the misfit tabby disappeared from Cousin Nikolai's house two days later — and hit the road for home.

"We didn't know she was coming home, and we imagined all kinds of terrible things had happened to her," said Anna, 37. "We talk very sad."

"It was very cold and snowy outside when she ate a way and we kept thinking she'd freeze to death and it was all our fault."

"We really thought she was gone forever and we'd never see her again."

But a year after she vanished, the well-traveled tabby showed up in the stairwell of the couple's apartment building one morning as Vladimir was leaving for work. The bedraggered cat had a pick in one ear, had lost a chunk of her tail — and appeared to be pregnant.

"We have no idea how she found her way home, but she obviously had a lot of adventures along the way," her mystified mistress told reporters.

"We were delighted to see her."

Delighted, that is, until the tampered feline knocked open a cage door and waddled down another of their staircases.

"Now we have a real problem," Anna said.

"We love our birds, but how could we possibly give Murka away after she walked 450 miles to get home? We're going to keep her."

... and does it again!

Man talks so long to 911 he can't escape fire!

A giddy 911 helter skelter skinned in a trailer fire, but he was hopped with the emergency 911 operator until it was too late to escape.

"We believe he literally talked himself to death instead of getting out of the trailer as fast as he could," said a fire department spokesman.

Russell Eads, 22, died of carbon monoxide poisoning after being trapped in a rear bedroom of the trailer in Sioux City, Iowa. Hong apparently awakened shortly before 5 a.m. to find his rental trailer home in flames. He supposedly died in his sleep.

A transcript of the phone conversation reflected Hong's frantic talk on the phone after giving the operator his address and the extent of the fire.

"He was trapped in the back bedroom and the fire was in the front of the trailer. That was where the only exit was lo-ated," said Police Sgt. Terry Korn. The 911 dispatcher was ready to send firemen to the address as soon as Hong got off the phone.

"Finally, Hong said, 'I've gotta go, G.K.' and hung up," said Sgt. Korn.

Hong apparently relapsed and died from carbon monoxide fumes after he hung up. A faulty hot water heater was blamed for the blaze which destroyed the small trailer.

Spats at work No. 1 cause of stress!

By CINDY O'NEIL

Quarreling with your spouse or children is the No. 1 cause of stress — and a recent study proves it!

"Arguments with your spouse or children are certainly distressing, but arguments with a workmate or a boss are the most stressing on a day-to-day basis," reports Niall Bolger, a social psychologist at the University of Denver.

Bolger and researchers from the University of Michigan and the University of British Columbia conducted the study in Detroit.

One hundred sixty-six married couples reported daily encounters with hostility, anxiety and depression. More than 12,000 incidents were documented over a six-week period. The most serious episodes appeared to be work-related, not domestic.

Even though domestic disputes were twice as frequent, workplace squabbles caused more immediate harm.

"When you have an argument with your wife or husband, you know that they love you," says Bolger. "But at the office there just isn't the same degree of understanding."

"It's one thing to argue about who's going to bring the kids to school this morning. It's another to argue about whether you are going to have a job tomorrow or get a promotion."

Advice from the psychologist: "Office squabbles should be nipped in the bud."

Think twice before you take Aunt Martha's advice

Common beliefs that are really BALONEY!

How many times did your mom, aunt or granny tell you, after you burned your finger on a hot pan, to rub butter on the boo-boo to take the pain away?

WRONG! WRONG! WRONG!

Smearing butter on a burn is the worst thing to do and can actually make the injury more painful. Cold water or ice is the best treatment.

That's the advice of authors Grace and Sylvia Nown to Uncle Mythobucks' book, Don't You Believe It! (Word Lock Limited, London, England).

The Nowns have taken hundreds of common, everyday beliefs handed down from generation to generation and set them right. Some of the myths they've corrected include:

• Coffee picks you up. Actually, coffee is downer. Caffeine is an stimulant, only supplies a brief bit of energy. Then the body is more tired than before.

• Fresh lemons are yellow. Rich, ripe fresh lemons are green and taste terrible. Farmers ripen lemons for up to three months in the sun then yellow and mellow the taste.

• Chocolate gives you pimples.

Butter on burns? BALONEY!

Coffee is on upper? BALONEY!

TV hurts the eyes? BALONEY!

length of the iron it was buried in the ground. A scientist accidentally put the decimal point in the wrong place.

• Chop suey comes from China. This popular dish is an all-American creation. It was created in New York in 1860 by a chef from the Chinese kitchen trying to prepare a meal for both Oriental and Western guests. He jumbled everything he could think of in the wok and it was Ed.

• ISON may taste good but they won't help the brain much. The tasty sweet won't make the pop out in pimples. The ugly blotches are caused by hormonal changes in teens and by a virus in adults.

• Spasms will make you strong like Popeye. This was believed for 1,500 years, but actually the green veggie only contains a little fiber, but do no harm to the body.

• Humid weather makes rheumatism flare up. While joints may have extra twinges on certain days, it is the changes in atmospheric pressure that cause the aches and pains.

• Spaghetti is an Italian invention. Hard as it may be to get the owner of your local pizza parlor to accept it, spaghetti did not come from Italy. Famed traveler Marco Polo brought the noodles back from China with him.

Old lady stuck 30 hours in pit filled with garbage

Elderly Stella Johns spent 30 horrifying hours in a 50-foot-deep pit — mired knee-deep in stinking garbage.

“It was awful. I’ve never been more scared in my life,” said Mrs. Johns, 61, of Heckewelville, Pa. “I’ve never crawled right over me.”

The frail old lady fell into the shiny dump as she tossed in a bag of empty cans. “I screamed for help but no one heard me,” she said.

It took 10 hours to get her out. “It took so long to get it up. There was so much junk down there. They tried to get out but I just stuck in the mud and in the garbage,” she said.

Mrs. Johns endured her frightening ordeal from 11 a.m. on Friday until 8:30 p.m. the next day — 30 terrifying hours.

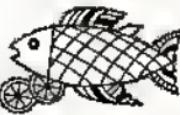

A worried son and daughter alerted police, who searched most of Saturday for Mrs. Johns. Her son found her.

“She’s fine, now. We’re all very thankful,” said Mrs. Johns’ daughter.

Infant's scream shocks delivery room . . .

'NOT AGAIN!'

By JOHN CHAPMAN

A newborn boy screamed, "Not again!" seconds after he was delivered, a respected obstetrician reports.

"As God is my witness that infant spoke to us right there," said Dr. Grigoris Farsakos, chief of obstetrics at the People's Free Clinic in Athens, Greece.

"Don't ask me why as how because I don't have any explanation. All I can tell you is that the boy screamed the words in English in a voice that was undeniably strong and clear."

"I know it sounds crazy. But it was almost like he was angry or afraid to be born."

The delivery room outburst was widely publicized after a hospital employee leaked the story to the Greek press.

Dr. Farsakos and four other delivery room staffers reluctantly confirmed the report at the request of the baby's parents — who believe in reincarnation and don't doubt for a minute their son has lived before.

"We all live many times," explained the mother, who requested anonymity. "Of course, I didn't have my son speak before him. I was sedated during labor."

"In a way it makes me sad. He must have had a hard time in his past life."

"Otherwise why wouldn't he want to be born again?"

since the day he was born. But the child appears to be healthy in all other respects. "It's a miracle," Dr. Farsakos said.

"Naturely I'm talking about his physical outlook," he added.

"It is too early to say much about his psychological development."

Nikolaos Vasilios, a respected paranormal researcher from Athens, agreed with Dr. Farsakos.

"At this early date it is impossible to say whether the boy was born with an awareness of a past life or accidentally sounded a couple of words," he said.

"Fortunately, his parents are open-minded."

This is the second time in the past four years a child has been born screaming the words, "Not again." The previous incident, reported in The NEWS, occurred in Salzburg, Austria.

Here comes the judge!

By JACK ALEXANDER

Close friends were shocked when gray-haired Judge Louis Tidwell was accused of luring young girls to his home for sex and drugs — but his neighbors weren't surprised.

"Here comes the judge. Here comes the judge," neighbors chanted as cops handcuffed Tidwell and took him to a Tampa, Fla., jail.

Twelve grams of crack cocaine and a suitcase full of videotapes depicting sex acts between young girls and a man believed to be Tidwell were discovered in his plush condo, said police.

The 61-year-old judge, who has been on the bench 20 years, is accused of enticing teenage girls to his condo and taking money from them in exchange for sex.

"I'm quite shocked. There was having problems and the thought never entered my mind," said Judge Daniel Gallagher, a longtime colleague of Tidwell.

"I respected him and I thought he was very competent," said Judge Gallagher. "Certainly this is out of character from what I know of him."

But others described the divorced judge as wildly differing terms.

"He was a pervert. I didn't know he was a judge until last night. I thought he was a cocaine dealer," said neighbor Gregg Collins.

There were young girls peaking in and out of his house all the time — regularly. They stood in front of my house during these parties and did cocaine," Police began investigating Judge Tidwell after three girls and their parents complained that he molested them several years ago, said Deputy Police Chief Tom DePols.

Tidwell also is accused of having sex with a 14-year-old girl in the presence of another girl, according to an arrest affidavit.

The veteran judge has been charged with possession of 12 grams of crack cocaine, three counts of performing lewd and lascivious acts with a child under 16 and one count each of securing a sexual performance by a child and delivering drugs to a minor.

He was released from the Hillsborough County jail after posting $25,000 bail. Tidwell has not been arraigned and no formal charges have been filed.

MAGISTRATE Louis Tidwell has been charged in two sex and drug scandals, say cops.

Boy's letter to granny gets 'special delivery'

Little letter-writer Jason Pruss and his grandma's loving letter — and it was a miracle the note ever got to her.

Jason, 7, popped his letter in the mail to Orleans — a town west of Ottawa — without a stamp, without the right street name and without apartment number or postal code. But kind Canadian postal workers saw to it that the pain-stickily-pressed message got to its destination — a year's worth to the delight of grandmother Margaret Pruss of London, Ontario.

"Somebody at the post office had a warm heart," said Mrs. Pruss, 68.

Actually, Jason hadn't done much a bad job of corresponding with his grandmas. He had no stamp, but he knew he should have one — so the clever kid drew his own stamp on the envelope.

Postal officials say they're going to send the child a booklet explaining how to properly address a letter. But in the meantime they're on the lookout for a second letter, this

Model

By IRWIN FISHER

A skinny young model literally ate herself to death, gobbling down 17 pounds of food in one massive meal!

According to the respected French medical journal Pathology, 19-year-old Tasha Chevalier's stomach split open causing her to bleed to death after eating her fatal feast.

Doctors say she ate two sirloin steaks, three baked potatoes, a whole head of cauliflower, a loaf of buttered garlic bread, ten tall glasses of milk, a half bottle of wine, a whole turkey breast, two dozen chicken wings, pickled pig's feet and two quarts of chow mein!

Dr. Phillip Gagnon determined exactly what the tragic woman ate by weighing and analysing the enormous food ball that was removed from her stomach.

He confirmed his findings by cross-checking the partially-digested food with the bottles and containers that were found in the kitchen where she died.

"She literally ate herself to death," Dr. Gagnon of Paris said in his report to Pathology. "When she was found, her abdomen was horribly distended and her stomach had actually split open."

"It must have been an excruciating death. But her appetite was such that she couldn't

Guys and gals

By MARTHA ATKINS

No matter what women's libbers say, the sexes will never be equal — because men and women's brains are different, says a top doc.

Gals would be a whole lot happier if they'd just accept that they're different, says British geneticist Anne Moir. She's written a new book, BrainSex, with David Jessel that outlines the differences between the sexes.

"Men and women are equal only in that they're both human. To say they're the same is stupid, silly or beyond us. To build a society based on a biological and scientific lie," says Dr. Moir, who spent 10 years researching the differences.

She says the sexes are differ-help herself. For most of her life she had been obsessed with her weight and starved herself to stave off hunger.

"She weighed only 79 pounds at the time of her death. She must have gone days on end without eating anything at all,"

Friends of the young model told Dr. Gagnon that she had been anorexic for years "and probably snapped" when she went on her mind-boggling eating binges.

The food ball in her stomach filled the scales at 17 pounds and consisted such a variety of appetizers and entrees that she was almost certainly eating everything in sight.

"She was found in an apartment she lived in at the kitchen table," said Dr. Gagnon. "This is what happens when a person with weight problems completely eat at hand."

The death of Miss Chavelier is not without precedent. In 1985 the prestigious British medical journal Lancet reported the death of a 23-year-old woman who downed an astonishing 16 pounds of food at one sitting.

are NOT equal— their brains are different!

not because their brains are "wired" differently. They process information differently as they have totally different life experiences, place importance on different things and act differently, says Dr. Meltzoff.

Women's brains have emphasized away the fact that guys and girls act differently because they've brought up differently, says Dr. Meltzoff. This simply isn't true.

Now scientists like Dr. Meltzoff are saying that men and women are in the way they are because of the way they're raised. For example, women feel pain laster and more sharply than men do, but they can stand pain for longer periods of time than men can. This is why girls will cry when they get hurt and boys will tough it out, and why women can endure long hours of pain during childbirth.

It's also been found that men have more taste buds than women do, but men can taste salty things easier than women can.

Dr. Meltzoff thinks women should accept the modulus for what they are and stop trying to be like men. They will never be able to do some things as well as a man can no matter how hard they try.

She lists the following as some of the most typical traits of the sexes:

WOMEN

- Naturally sensitive
- Intuitive

• Good at communicating

• More compassionate

• Better at languages

• A better judge of character

• Better tasting, slight vi-

ation and smell

• Need love more than sex

• Good at managing people

MEN

• Good at abstract thinking

• Mechanically minded

• Driven by money and status

• Better at math

• More decisive

• Good at judging distance and space

World-wide dragnet out for kill-crazy creatures

NIGHTMARISH ASSIMILS of Dr. Anton Jonbach's experiments look remarkably like the Stone Age man, left. His creatures have sucking toes, oversized ears and are covered with hair," said an expert.

Real-life Dr. Frankenstein breeding man-apes

By SCOTTY PAUL

There is indisputable evidence that a mad Austrian scientist has successfully recreated a monster from the Stone Age — a Neanderthal man.

"At least three of the half-human, half-ape creatures have been spotted.

PRO BALL FOR JUNIOR?

According to the book West Are the Chambers (Harcourt Publishing, New York), the likelihood that your boy will grow up to be a pro football player is 2001 percent. That's about 12 out of every 100,000 boys.

but there could be many more out there," said Hans Goertz, a spokesman for Interpol, the worldwide police agency.

The hairy monsters are the insane handiwork of Dr. Anton Jonbach, a real-life Dr. Frankenstein, who lost his license to practice in Austria 20 years ago.

Flamingo reports that Dr. Jonbach was fertilizing the eggs of apes and monkeys with human sperm before circulating them five years ago. The NEWS first reported his fiendish experiments in April of 1964. "There is no doubt Dr. Jonbach has been successful in creating a Neanderthal man with the strength of a gorilla and a brilliant mind," said Dr. Lars Hemmer of the renowned Karolinska research hospital in Stockholm, Sweden.

"We are extremely concerned the twisted mind of Dr.

Jonbach has released some evil beings on society as revenge for his banishment from medical practice. This is no science — it's madness."

Interpol has questioned villagers who worked with Dr. Jonbach in a mountain laboratory near San Martin de Cielo in northern Italy.

"They gave us scaphiops of the first monster created by the mad doctor. They are not of good quality but we are circulating the photo around the world," said Interpol Agent Goertz. "The monsters have sunken eyes, oversized ears and are covered with hair. As far as we know, they can crawl but can't talk."

Shortly after the first specimen's shots were taken, his men berserk and crushed two of Dr. Jonbach's aides with his bare hands.

"They tried to tranquillize and cage the beast but he escaped and is still at large," said Agent Goertz. "He's been spotted several times in wooded areas but stays pretty much by himself."

Another creature was seen in Paris, France, train station and third was seen on a beach in Italy.

"A ticket agent in Paris said the hairy ape was with a man who resembles Dr. Jonbach," said Agent Goertz.

Apprehending Dr. Jonbach and his ape-like creatures is a top priority of Interpol agents throughout the world.

"There's no telling what monsters this madman has turned loose on the world," said Agent Goertz. "Dr. Jonbach and his man-made monsters must be caught at all costs."

Want big bucks? Sell leaves to Florida

While folks up north are raking and raking the leaves littering their lawns, Florida residents are rushing to stores to buy them — for up to 12 bucks a bag!

Most of the leaves, shipped in from as far away as Oregon and California, are labeled as "big" in that Northern way, minus the capital symbol at the end.

"People come in bunches to buy them," said nursery manager Paul Bissell of Tamargo. "It brings back the northern atmosphere. And we're sold out!"

Even Florida supermarketers are getting the spirit. Shoppers can buy up a bag of leaves along with their groceries.

Local dealers say oak and maple leaves are their best sellers.

By MARTHA ATKINS

The man who brutally beat, murdered and raped a pregnant doctor says he should be strapped in the electric chair and fried to a crisp for his horrific crimes.

"I just don't want to be in this world killing people," said Steven Smith, 25, convicted of killing Dr. Kathryn Hinnant. "I might as well get burnt instead of spending 25 years to life in jail."

Smith was living in a bay machinery room of New York City's Bellevue Hospital at the time of the murder. The sicko roamed the halls posing as a surgeon with a stolen ID card and a stethoscope around his neck.

"It took great joy moving around the hospital and fooling people, looking like part of the society," said Police Commissioner Benjamin Ward.

Pretty Dr. Hinnant, 33, was working alone in her windowless 7- by 10-foot office in an isolated part of the hospital when Smith attacked her.

The hood shattered her nose with a punch, sending blood spurting everywhere. Then he strangled her with electrical cord he was carrying when she screamed in agony.

Little Joseph McNamee released a bunch of balloons on his birthday — and got the breadts with the power company. The Indianapolis 3-year-old got 10 bills from Andrusco, a striped light & Power company complaining that his balloons had floated out a power line 30 miles north of his house. The balloons cut off power to half as many as 25 houses, the utility said.

"This was a free balloon, but you should be aware of how dangerous power lines can be," advised the company's bus garage in the sternly worded letter.

Joseph and his dad had visited a McDonald's restaurant to the Indianapolis giving the little boy's name and address — but they didn't expect the kind of response they got.

Three gorillas who escaped from a Canadian zoo ate apples, oranges and a book on ape behavior.

Officials at the Calgary Zoo said the curious creatures had escaped from the kitchen after someone left open the door to their pens.

"It was really just like a bunch of kids in a candy shop," said zoo associate director Greg Tarry. "They went over every cupboard and picked out everything they thought looked good and fed it."

Keepers brought up the two-hour process by spraying the gorillas with water and then had to get them back to their pens, Tarry said. The apes weren't

New Doctors' Discovery

Weight Loss Pill Approved for U.S. Gov't. Patent*"Easy Way" to Lose Weight Already Sweeping U.S.*

NEVERLY HILLS, CA (Special) — An amazing new weight loss pill called "lat-magnet" has recently been developed and perfected by two prominent doctors at a world famous hospital in Los Angeles that reportedly "guarantees" vocally that it loses and reduces inches by simply taking it.

The U.S. government has just approved the doctors' claims for a hard-to-get patent that confirms "there has never been anything like this fat-busting pill process before." It is a totally new major scientific breakthrough in revolutionizing the weight loss industry.

You Can Eat Normally
Best of all, "you can consume as eat your favorite foods and you don't have to change your eating habits. You can start losing fat and reduce calories from the very first day, until you achieve the ideal weight you desire without exercising."

Finally Eat Out of Body
The new pill is appropriately called "lat-magnet" because it breaks into thousands of particles, each acting like a tiny magnet that attracts and traps many times its size of undigested fat particles. Thus, all the trapped fat and calories are naturally "flushed" right out of your body because they cannot be absorbed.

Within 2 days you should notice a change in the color of your stool, caused by the fat particles being eliminated.

"Automatically" Lose Fat

According to one of the inventors, Dr. William Shell, medical director and associate professor of medicine at UCLA medical school, "the new fat-busting process is a "lazy way" in a weight because the pill magically "automatically" reduce calories by eliminating dietary fat as it is 100% fat and not a drug."

The fat-curing pills are already sweeping the country with glowing reports of weight loss from formerly fat people in all walks of life who are now thinner, trimmer and more attractive again.

Now Available to the Public
Now you are trying to lose 20, 50, 100 pounds or more, you can under your supply of these "as-mark" highly successful lat-magnet pills directly from the doctors' exclusive mail-order outlet. ## Evil mom forces son, 6, to drink himself to death — with water!

A merciless mom will go to prison in the bizarre death of her small son, whose brain nearly exploded — after he was forced to drink 16 pints of water.

“Six-year-old Christopher West was being punished by his mother, Angela West, and her live-in boyfriend, Jon Crawford, for misbehaving,”

“The boy’s brain swelled up to the point of bursting from the water. He lapsed into a coma and never came out,” said medical examiner Thomas Clark.

For his part in the horrific death, Crawford, of Winston-Salem, N.C., is charged. Miss West, 26, is to go to prison for involuntary manslaughter. Crawford, 36, remains in bed sentenced to life in prison for homicide.

“The boy was forced to drink the water over the course of a morning. His mother and he threw up a dozen times and he finally went into convulsions,” said District Atty. Steve Bales.

Shocked jurors heard法庭 was not one of many cruel punishments the youngster was forced to endure.

Christopher was forced to lie naked for hours in a cold bathtub and forced to drink hot water, same, according to testimony.

A neighbor testified Miss West forced her son to stand outside wearing a diaper and holding a baby bottle and signs which read, “I told Mommy lie.”

The mean mom and her boyfriend tried to convince the jury they were trying to flush the child’s system when they flushed the boy’s system with the 16 pints of water.

Four months before the youngster’s bizarre death, his mom and Crawford were accused of forcing him to drink hot salsa and eat soap.

TRAPPER Armand Loubet

Dying man to bid final farewell to a gentle giant

By JANET DAVIES

Fur trapper Armand Loubet will again keep a bizarre Christmas Eve rendezvous with a gentle Bigfoot who has visited his wilderness cabin on that holly night for the past 12 years!

The hairy, man-like creature will leave a gift of meat but only if Loubet makes certain that no animals suffer in the steel jaws of his traps on the day before Christ's birthday.

"Bigfoot is my friend," Loubet told newsmen after undergoing medical tests in Edmonton, Canada. "But this might be the last year that I see him. The doctor told me I have only a few years left and I've already lived longer than they expected. So I'll be at my cabin this Christmas Eve and I hope the Bigfoot will make one last visit."

As first reported in The NEWS in 1983, the remarkable relationship between Loubet and the legendary beast of the wilderness began on the eve of Christmas in 1977, as Loubet was tracking snowshoe marten in a cabin on the banks of the Peace River in northern Alberta. "The sun was just dipping below the horizon," the 57-year-old trapper recalled. "The sky was a brilliant lavender streaked with red and I had turned to look at it before going back to the cabin.

"Suddenly I felt as if something was watching me. I felt as if something was on my back," the trapper recalled. "I turned and there he was, no more than 15 feet away. . . .

"He was huge — at least eight feet tall. His entire body was covered in long, brown hair. Only his face was bare. He just stood there looking at me. I thought he was a hooded coat.

liss on the next Christmas Eve. I wanted to see if the creature would return to my cabin. He did."

"But on this Christmas Eve in 1979, the Bigfoot bore a gift — a scoldly fresh deer."

"It obviously had been dead for some time," Loubet explained. "There was not a mark of injury on it. The meat was good and it would last me many weeks."

"It was then that I fully realized that the Bigfoot had come to my cabin on every solemn Christmas Eve. I have thought many times about it, but I still don't understand why or how a beast could have such feelings."

"But that is the way it has been ever since. No animals die in my traps on Christmas Eve and Bigfoot brings me his gift of hunks."

"It will be the same again this year. But it might be our final meeting. And though it may sound foolish, I just want to be there to my goodness to an old friend. Perhaps he and I will meet again after I die — sometime up yonder."

35,000 letters of love

Dear old dad sends a note a day to each of his 6 kids — since 1973

By MARTHA ATKINS

Clifton "Slim" Surfus writes to each of his six kids every day — and he hasn't missed a day in 16 years!

That's over 35,000 letters just to his children alone! He's also written tens of thousands

"I starts d write to the kids wha they went a way to college. And then they get married and moved away, so I just kept on writing," says Slim, who lives in Chicago, Ill.

"I write personalized notes to each one every day."

Slim had his wife, Frances, who passed away last December, were married for 55 wonderful years. Three of their children — Sharon, 50, Judy, 45, and Dawn, 33 — live close to him in Illinois. Two of his daughters, Wanda, 46, and Holly, 35, live in Pennsylvania, and his son Gerald, 55, lives in Sarasota, Fla.

He's also got 14 grandchildren that he writes to, but not every day.

The retired steelworker sets aside a certain time each day to sit down and write his letters.

But he doesn't use regular stationery.

"We've all given him boxes of stationery, but he doesn't use it," says his oldest daughter, Sharon Carlson.

He writes on the back of coupon and articles she's clipped. I've even gotten notes on the back of each month's bill," he says.

He gets and programs from phys that he's seen."

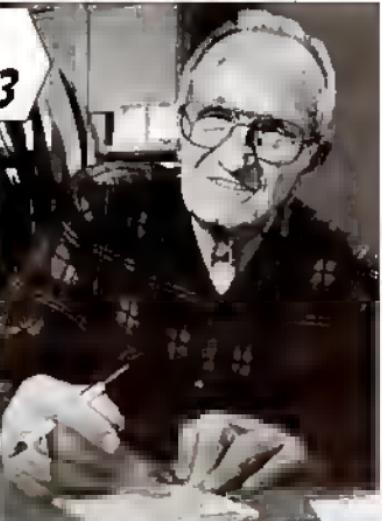

He tells his kids what's been happening to him and any thoughts that he's had during the day.

"And if a pen runs out of ink while he's writing, he sends you the pen with the letter," says his youngest daughter, Dawn Mallow.

The letter-writing dad does not mail his letters in regular envelopes, either. He makes his own out of paper and seals them with Scotch tape all around.

He likes to say they really look forward to getting those daily letters.

"I call him up if I don't get one and ask him what happened," says Dawn. "He says you'll get one tomorrow, if not today. He's been doing it for 16 years. It's the post office's fault if we don't get one every day."

He hasn't missed a beat in 16 years! Dear dad "Slim" Surfus writes to each of his children every day.

No charges are expected to be filed.

ASTOUNDING PROGRESS: Michele is now able to live an extreme life, says her doctor.

By SUSAN JIMISON

Michele Pigeon was known as "The Girl in the Iron Mask" because a bizarre mental disorder forced her to live strapped into a helmet — as protection against herself!

Today, the Bradenton, Fla., girl is a perfectly normal young woman, thanks to a dedicated doctor who cured her of her horrible disease. But she still bears the scars she got from smashing into walls, hitting herself in the face and trying to gouge out her eyes.

"Now she's charming, she's perfect," said the miracle worker, behavior modification expert Dr. Neil Steinig, who has worked with Michele for six long years. "She works hard, dresses beautifully and she's responsible and considerate."

"U had a daughter, I'd want her to be like Michele is now. But in the 15 years I've worked with mental patients she's the most astounding case I've ever seen."

Michele first appeared in the pages of The NEWS back in 1981, at age 18, after her bizarre got so wild she had to be institutionalized. She was 15 years old then and her case was considered hopeless. A committee of experts had given up on her.

Dr. Steinig began working with her in 1983 and realized within weeks that Michele had the worst case of self-harm he had ever seen. Michele had to be tied down because four or five people could barely keep her from lashing out at herself — or anyone who got in her way.

Within weeks, Dr. Steinig stopped tying her and simply wrestled her to a standstill when she tried to attack. Two years later, she was well enough to do without her helmet.

"I look enormous persistent and ready," the Miami psychiatrist said recently.

She still had to wrangle from moment to moment. The amount of pain Michele put herself through was awful. She would bite herself thousands of times a day if you let her. She mutilated her face and destroyed the vision in one eye.

"Slowly and surely by talking to her, we shod her thinking into normal lines and she learned she had to cooperate. "In the early years, she dislocated my shoulder. She scratched, bit, kicked. Michele kicked me in the face. I looked like I was in a street fight. Today, you'd wonder why she's still walking."

Michele is now at South Florida Hospital near Ft. Lauderdale, now and is continuing her treatment with Dr. Steinig. Her parents hope to move her closer to home.

lives soon and are making arrangements to bring her to a foster home. Friends say she has been tormented by her mother since she was 10.

"She has to be around people that understand how she can have problems again," explained Dr. Sieberg. "She has in be a positive environment."

STRAPPED TO A CHAIR: Michelle Pigeon was unable to keep from smacking into walls and hitting herself in the face.

Con uses wooden leg to dig out of prison

A crafty convict nearly broke out of jail by digging through his cell wall with his artificial leg!

Shirley Memmery, 27, who is awaiting trial on attempted murder charges in San Antonio, Tex., dug his way through the bricks of the outer wall of his cell before he was caught trying to escape.

"He used a wooden leg," said Sheriff

Harold Copeland. "He took the metal brace off his wooden leg and used it."

Officials also found a pile of shears under Memmery's bed. They believe he was planning to use them in his escape bid.
